DESCRIPTION

An original 1930s German signboard informing about the place where mobile mail is stopping. It was a post office bus doing postal services under the system named Kraftpost.

CONSTRUCTION

Pressed convex steel sheet covered with three-colored enamel. The signature of the producer, UNIONWERKE 1933, is visible from the inside.

The state of preservation is shown in the photographs. The signboard has been thoroughly and carefully cleaned while preserving the patina of time. The whole is secured with a special wax.
